

Do You Qualify for a Mass Tort Case?

If you've been harmed due to a defective product, dangerous drug, or toxic exposure, you may be eligible to join a mass tort lawsuit. Below is a checklist of key eligibility criteria, a flowchart to help you determine if you should proceed with a claim, and important factors that may impact your case.

---

Mass Tort Eligibility Checklist

Before filing a claim, you should meet the following criteria:

- ✓ Injury or Illness Documentation – Medical records proving harm related to the product, drug, or exposure.
  - ✓ Proof of Product Use or Exposure – Receipts, prescriptions, medical implants, or witness testimony linking you to the harmful product.
  - ✓ Consistent Symptoms & Diagnosis – Medical history that aligns with known side effects or complications caused by the product.
  - ✓ Legal Deadlines (Statute of Limitations) – Lawsuits must be filed within a specific time frame, usually 2-4 years from the date of injury or discovery.
  - ✓ Similar Cases Filed – Other individuals have reported similar injuries, forming the basis for a mass tort claim.
-

Should You Proceed with a Mass Tort Claim?

Use this flowchart to determine if you should take legal action:

[Flowchart Visual]

- 1 Did you use a product, drug, or device that has been linked to injuries?
  - ➔ Yes → Go to Step 2
  - ➔ No → You may not qualify.
- 2 Have you experienced health complications or side effects related to this product?
  - ➔ Yes → Go to Step 3
  - ➔ No → Mass tort cases require proof of harm.

③ Do you have medical records or documentation linking your injury to the product?

- ➔ Yes → Go to Step 4
- ➔ No → Evidence is crucial for legal success.

④ Has a lawsuit or recall been filed against the manufacturer?

- ➔ Yes → You may qualify for a claim. Contact a legal expert.
- ➔ No → You may still qualify. Consult an attorney for evaluation.

---

Factors That Affect Case Eligibility

Several factors influence your ability to file a successful mass tort claim:

- ♦ Severity of Injury – The stronger the medical evidence, the higher the likelihood of compensation.
- ♦ Exposure Duration – Prolonged use of a harmful drug or product strengthens your case.
- ♦ Pre-existing Conditions – Some claims require proof that your injury was directly caused by the product, not a prior condition.
- ♦ State Laws & Deadlines – Different states have varying statutes of limitations, so acting quickly is essential.
- ♦ Mass Tort Certification – If your case is part of a recognized mass tort, it may proceed more efficiently.

---

What's Next?

If you meet the criteria above, you may be eligible to join a mass tort lawsuit and seek compensation for medical expenses, lost wages, and pain & suffering.

 Get a Free Case Evaluation Today! Contact us to find out if you qualify.